Food and Agricultural Import Regulations and Standards - Certification

FAIRS Export Certificate Report

Approved By:

Christine Sloop

Prepared By:

Andreja Misir

Report Highlights:

This report provides information on the export certificates required by the Government of Croatia for processed food, agricultural food products, live animals (cattle, pets, etc), livestock feed and supplements. All sections of this annual report were updated in November 2012. It should be noted that due to Croatia's rapid harmonization of food legislation with EU legislation, information in this report should be double checked for obsolescence with the USDA office in Croatia

Section I. List of All Export Certificates Required By Government (Matrix) :

Disclaimer: This report was prepared by the USDA/FAS' Office of Agricultural Affairs in Zagreb, Croatia, for U.S. exporters of domestic food and agricultural products. While every possible care has been taken in the preparation of this report, information provided may not be completely accurate either because policies have changed since its preparation, or because clear and consistent information about these policies was not available. It is highly recommended that U.S. exporters verify the full set of import requirements with their foreign customers, who are normally best equipped to research such matters with local authorities, before any goods are shipped. FINAL IMPORT APPROVAL OF ANY PRODUCT IS SUBJECT TO THE IMPORTING COUNTRY'S RULES AND REGULATIONS AS INTERPRETED BY BORDER OFFICIALS AT THE TIME OF PRODUCT ENTRY.

Model certificates may not be available for products that have never before been exported to Croatia or the EU. In general, health certificates are required for all imported products of animal origin and phytosanitary certificates are needed for all plant products that could introduce pests.

Croatian/EU import certification for plants and plant products, unlike for veterinary products, has only one model certificate in accordance with international regulations laid out by the International Plant Protection Convention of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (see: www.ippc.int/IPPEn/default.htm). Phytosanitary certificates are issued by APHIS inspectors, who attest to specific requirements of Croatian/EU legislation by making additional declarations in the relevant boxes.

Section IV. Government Certificate's Legal Entry Requirements

All certificates listed in this report, i.e. certificates that must accompany a product at the time of entry, must be originals.

A certificate can be applied to multiple shipments only if the goods in the shipment come from the same batch.

For the listed certificates, Croatia does not accept a Supplier's or Manufacturer's Export Declaration as proof of compliance.

For the listed certificates, Croatia will accept state-issued export certificates from the United States, if the state-issued certificates are in accordance with Croatian legislation.

After Croatian EU accession (July 1, 2013) Croatia will accept EU model certificates.

Section V. Other Certification/Accreditation Requirements

Regulation on Food for Special Nutritional Purposes (NN 41/2010) requires that food for special nutritional purposes also obtain approval from the Ministry of Health before being placed on the market. For details on the procedure contact the FAS Croatia office (for contact information see Appendix II). However, food products for special nutritional purposes can be placed on the market without approval from the Ministry of Health if a notice is sent to the Ministry when placing a specific product on the market together with an application for that product to the responsible institution in the EU and an adequate explanation in the Croatian language. Moreover, Regulation on Food Supplements (NN 46/2011) requires that most food supplements (with some special exceptions) have a notification number from the Ministry of Health and the Regulation on Food Enriched with Nutrients (NN 112/2011) also asks for food enriched with nutrients to have a notification number from the Ministry of Health.

Croatia has not approved any biotech crops for food or feed use in Croatia, but there is a 0.9% threshold level for some biotech events in food and feed. Under a special ordinance from 2008 and its amendments from 2009, 2010, 2011 and 2012 the threshold for biotech content in food depends upon whether or not the biotech event is on the Ordinance's list of permitted GMO events (the list is created from the list of biotech events previously tested and licensed in the EU). If the biotech event is on the Ordinance's list, it does not need to be labeled for sale on the Croatian market--provided separate tests within Croatia confirm that the product contains below 0.9% biotech content (for products that consist of more than one ingredient, the 0.9% threshold is permitted per product's ingredient). However, if the biotech content is above 0.9%, the product must be labeled. The biotech threshold level drops to 0.0% for biotech products that are not on the Ordinance's list. The same applies to feed. (see Agricultural Biotechnology Annual HR1207)

In October 2010, Croatia published special import conditions calling for mandatory testing of all U.S. almonds imports into Croatia. However, as of January 1, 2012, shipments accompanied with a Croatian Health Certificate (Regulation on Special Conditions for Import of Specific Food from Third Countries Due to the Risk of Contamination with Aflatoxins NN120/2010, NN63/2011 in compliance with EU1152/2009) are now only subject to random testing. USDA and the California almond industry have developed a "Voluntary Aflatoxin Sampling Plan (VASP)". That procedure is considered to provide sufficient assurances so that almonds shipped under the VASP are only subject to random controls in Croatia under the following conditions:

- if the exporting company provides a Croatian Import Health Certificate or VASP (VASP must be signed and stamped by the USDA and the importing company must provide official VASP translation into Croatian language) then 5% of all almond shipments will be randomly tested for aflatoxin
- If the exporting company does not provide a VASP or a Croatian Import Health Certificate then that almond shipment will be tested for aflatoxins

Therefore, almonds not controlled under a VASP continue to be subject to 100% testing. This regulation also introduces the use of a Common Entry Document (CED). Importers have to provide prior notification to the competent authorities at the designated port of entry for the goods covered by this regulation.

In addition, from January 1st, 2012, US peanuts can be imported into Croatia on the basis of EC Decision 47/2008, EC Regulation 882/2004, and EC Regulation 401/2006. This permits pre-export aflatoxin testing of peanuts and certification. Once issued the certificate is valid for four months. This certificate ensures lower frequency of aflatoxin testing at the Croatian border.

Providing additional information on the imported product will be viewed favorably by the border inspectors. These documents could be the following: producers' specifications, certificate of origin, certificate of compliance with certain regulations, etc.
